

i have been harassed over the last few days with pop up "ads" from www.fightpopups.com telling me that unless i pay for their service, i will continue to be subject to pop ups from them. i have contacted aol (my isp) and even their pop up blockers are unable to stop it. i have e-mailed the site, requesting them to stop, that i consider it harassment, and yet i continue to get them. with seemingly higher regularity now. i can understand the right to advertise, but this seems to me to be a violation of my rights to privacy, not to mention what i would think is criminal harassment.
